Hopewell Junction, NY –November 5, 2025 – Official Statement: eMagin Corporation, a wholly-owned subsidiary of Samsung Display, is aware of a rumor circulating in the market claiming that Samsung intends to sell eMagin. This rumor is entirely false. Samsung Display completed its acquisition of eMagin in late 2023 and fully owns the company, underscoring Samsung's long-term investment in eMagin's technology and growth. Samsung Display's commitment to eMagin remains unwavering; our partnership is steadfast, and there are no plans whatsoever for any sale or divestiture of eMagin.

We take this baseless rumor very seriously. The rumor has no factual basis and appears to be a fabrication aimed at misleading our stakeholders. eMagin continues to operate normally under the Samsung Display umbrella, delivering on all orders, projects and commitments. Our collaborative efforts with Samsung have only strengthened our capabilities – for example, Samsung's resources have enhanced eMagin's production and R&D, benefiting our customers with improved efficiency and innovation. Any suggestion that Samsung Display is disengaging from eMagin is false and contrary to the reality of our ongoing cooperation.

We caution any individual or entity involved in spreading these falsehoods to cease immediately. Knowingly spreading false statements intended to interfere with another company's business or relationship may give rise to liability under applicable federal and state laws, including New York's laws governing trade libel and unfair competition. eMagin will vigorously protect its rights and interests. We are prepared to pursue all available legal remedies against the dissemination of defamatory rumors that could harm our business or partnerships.

In summary: Samsung Display and eMagin remain fully aligned and committed to our shared success. We value our customers, partners, and employees, and we will not tolerate malicious attempts to undermine confidence in our company. We appreciate the trust that our community has placed in us and assure everyone that eMagin's future as part of Samsung Display is secure.
